GERMANY NOT READY FOR PEACE MOVE IN RUHR OCCUPATION

Washington, D. C., Mar. 24.—Germany is not yet ready for an agreement in regard to the Ruhr, according to information obtained today.

A recent communication to the United States and Great Britain stated the position of Germany in the occupation and how far the Cuno government would go toward a settlement, and in stated as a first requisite for negotiations that the French troops be withdrawn.

This information strongly indicates that the struggle between the two countries in the Ruhr will continue for some time before settlement can be agreed upon or even open peace negotiations undertaken.

HARDING, PRESSING FOR ECONOMY, MAY CALL EXTRA SESSION

St. Augustine, Fla., Mar. 24.—President Harding is said to be considering convening Congress early in the autumn to pass on government organization plans as a means to cut down taxes. He is, however, unwilling to summon an extra session, but finds with the demand for tax revision, he must find a way to save before taxes can be reduced.

Owing to Mr. Harding's refusal to let anything interfere with his vacation, decision on this matter will go over until his return to Washington. A conference with Cabinet members will precede the session of Congress.

C. H. S. LOSES TO ERIE 36 TO 34 TODAY AFTER TROUNCING SHARON 32 TO 23 AT LAST NIGHT'S GAME

Put Up a Valiant and Glorious Fight Against Fresh Team Conceded To Be Strong.

OUT OF RACE NOW

Well, we are not going to be the state champions in interscholastic basketball, but our boys certainly gave those westerners, and north westerners a run for their money at that.

In this afternoon's game at Grove City, C. H. S. by reason of drawing lots for opponents, drew the strong Erie Central team. The boys had been thru a grueling contest last night from which they emerged victors with flying colors and the strong Erie Central team; touted as the giants of the state, were pitted against them this afternoon fresh and in the pink of physical condition, in being their luck to draw the blank last night and they did not play.

In this afternoon's game the local boys showed all the form for which they are justly famous and allowed the Erie boys to defeat them by only two points.

The final score this afternoon was 36 to 34 in favor of Erie.

C. H. S. is therefore out of the race.

but every Clearfielder will admire the battle that they put up and think none the less of them. Greet them as victors when they return home for that they really are.

Tonight Erie and Oil City will play for the championship of the western part of the state.

Grove City, Pa., March 24.—Mercer county's chances of coping sectional floor game honors in the schoolboy basketball tournament of the Northwestern Pennsylvania counties, being played off here on the college floor, were crushed last night in the defeat of her representative team, Sharon High, which was counted out by the Clearfield five in a game ending 32-23 in favor of the north county passers. The game was the second of the elimination trials of the fourth annual tournament of Northwestern Pennsylvania high schools in which five teams are competing. In the opening match Oil City took the measure of Ridgway by a decisive score of 31-14.

Drawing of the victors matched Clearfield with Erie Central High for this afternoon, the winner of that event to play Oil City tonight for the sectional title.

The opening match failed to strike a balance of teams, the Ridgway five proving no match for the more adroit Oil City passers. By quarters the Oil Town boys led, 12-1, 15-3, 22-7. The Clearfield win was more or less of a family affair if the scoring can be offered as proof, the Browns, R. and W., and Johnsons, S. and H., scoring all the points. The Clearfield team stole a march on the Mercer county passers and led them at the first quarter, 13-4; Sharon rallied and at the half had cut the lead to a 15-18 margin, favoring Clearfield. The third and fourth quarters found Sharon battling gamely on the defensive. Clearfield not only handled the ball well but was very accurate in its shooting. Both games were remarkable for the scarcity of fouls.

By Referee Cal Bolster, 17 totaling the free tries of the first game and 18 the last. The victors of last night's games are both well-balanced teams that will give any high school quint a battle. Two real battles are expected today, as Erie is touted a favorite.

The line-up:

Sharon—23	Clearfield—32
Cox	F	W. Brown
Broderick	F	H. Johnson
Gamble	C	R. Brown
Hardy	G	Pearce
Nightwine	G	S. Johnson
Substitutions: Wilson for R. Brown, Mitchell for Pearce, R. Brown for W. Brown, Barney for S. Johnson, Pearce for Mitchell.
Field goals: W. Brown 5, H. Johnson 2, R. Brown, S. Johnson 4, Cox 4, Gamble 4, Hardy, Foul goals—Cox 5 out of 4, H. Johnson 8 out of 11. Time of quarters—10 minutes. Official—Bolster.

Five teams from the western part of the state are competing for the western championship. A like number are competing at State College for the eastern championship. The winner at Grove City and the winner at State College will then compete for the state championship.

Ridgway and Sharon were eliminated by last night's game. Either Erie or Clearfield would be eliminated this afternoon and Oil City, the victorious team last night tonight will play the winner of this afternoon's game. Clearfield was unfortunate in drawing for position as the local team will have to win three straight to be champs. Drawing Erie admittedly the best team in the bunch for this afternoon was unfortunate too, for even should C. H. S. win this afternoon, it will be a fresh team that she must play tonight.

COURSE ON SUGAR PRICE GOUGE WILL BE DECIDED SOON

Washington, D. C., Mar. 24.—The Department of Justice early next week is expected to make a decision as to whether the Federal government can prosecute the sugar combine who are charged with gouging the American people out of fifteen millions of dollars in the recent sugar rise.

A comprehensive investigation of manipulations of the sugar market during the last six weeks, which has resulted in the rise of seventy-five percent on the price of sugar, has been started by A. C. Seymour, Acting Attorney General. He will be assisted by the Department of Commerce.

Sailor John Kline Of Clearfield Is Drowned In Guantanamo Bay, Cuba

John Myhoffer Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Kline, of West Sixth avenue, who enlisted in the U. S. Navy some time ago, fell overboard from the U. S. S. Porpoise while that vessel was with the fleet at war maneuvers in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, on January 8th, 1923. Every endeavor was made to recover the body but without avail, so the family here have been notified.

The deceased was born in Clearfield September 29, 1902, being therefore aged 20 years, 3 months and 12 days.

The news of the young man's untimely death was a sad and most severe shock to his family and many friends here.

He is survived by his parents, one brother and one sister.

Penalty for Wife Beating Dropped; Gets 30 Days For Making His Own

Joe Romanski, the "Osceola" man, who has the habit of cuffing his good wife whenever he thinks she needs it, which is quite often according to the abused wife, was before Judge Bell for sentence yesterday on his double-barreled plea of guilty to the charge of assault and battery against the wife and to the possession of a still and other tools and ingredients sometimes used to circumvent Andy Volstead and his minions.

A couple of weeks ago Romanski beat his wife just once too often. She had a warrant issued for his arrest. When the Constable went to his home to arrest the wife beater he found Joe hiding in the midst of his illicit distilling outfit and haled him before the Justice of the Peace for violation of the liquor law as well as assault and battery.

When called for sentence the wife interceded for him and on that plea Judge Bell suspended sentence for one year on condition that Joe does no more wife beating. On the liquor charge he was sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs and serve one year in jail, with the privilege of parole after 30 days on payment of fine and costs.

COMMERCIAL AND ROTARY CLUBS WILL FORM COMPANY TO ACQUIRE PLOTS OF GROUND AND FINANCE CONSTRUCTION

Propose Cutting Up Weaver Circus Lots Into Building Lots and Going Into Real Estate Business On a No Profit Basis to Help Builders

COMMITTEE TO SELL STOCK IS NAMED

State Forestry Commissioner Robert Y. Stuart of Harrisburg, met and addressed an audience of one hundred and twenty-seven of the business and professional men of Clearfield when he attended and addressed a joint meeting of the Commercial and Rotary Clubs and their guests at the Hotel Dimeling last evening.

President Dr. Paul Frantz of the Commercial Club presided over the meeting very capably and before introducing the guest of the evening took up the regular business of the club and the meeting. Dr. Frantz made the first public announcement of the proposed organization of the Clearfield Home Building Company, which is a project advanced by the Commercial and Rotary Clubs and representatives of the different banking institutions of the town, which has for its object the securing of a half a hundred or more homes for Clearfield residents. He said this committee had secured an option on the Weaver lots lying between Third and Fourth streets and fronting on Leavy avenue—the circus grounds—and proposed laying the same out in lots and building houses for the accommodation of Clearfield's rapidly growing population. He then introduced President H. B. Powell of the County National Bank who detailed the plan under which the proposed corporation is to be organized. Mr. Powell said the Weaver lots had been plotted and run off into 46 building lots by the Clearfield Home Building Company, a chartered corporation with capital stock totaling $25,000. It was proposed to have the business men of Clearfield provide this capital stock and to this end a committee or team headed by P. T. Davis, of the Clearfield Trust Company, would start out Monday next to sell the required stock. The shares are worth $100 each and the stockholders will be satisfied with their money back and legal interest only during the time it is being used or held by the corporation. When organized the lots will be sold to home builders and when a lot purchaser has his lot paid for and desires to build the corporation will assist him with the money to build the house, protected by a mortgage on the premises. Mr. Powell said this was a move long needed in Clearfield and he solicited and promised most satisfactory response to the appeal for stockholders on the part of our business people.

Hear of Train Restoration.

The matter of the re-establishment of Sunday passenger service on the B. & P. road between Clearfield and DuBois was the next subject taken up by President Frantz and he directed Walter Flegal, chairman of the civic affairs committee of the Commercial Club, to read a letter received by Editor John F. Short, of the Clearfield Republican, from Passenger Agent Huntington of the B. & P. Railway Company at Rochester, which contained the welcome announcement that Sunday passenger service would be restored to both the G. & M. and Indiana branches of that road upon April 29, 1923, at the time the summer schedule went into effect. The announcement was received with hearty applause.

Penfield Road Discussed.

The much-needed Penfield road improvement was the next matter of community interest taken up by President Frantz, who announced that Commissioner Stuart gave a highly interesting and instructive talk on the state forests and the urgent necessity for the hearty co-operation of every citizen in the work of conserving and reforesting these Pennsylvania hills. He showed the discrepancy we place on wood and said that while the annual per capita consumption of wood in Pennsylvania was 200 board feet we were actually producing now but 58 board feet per capita. He touched briefly on the trials and tribulations of the department, complimented Clearfield people for their assistance in helping to protect forest fires in the past and collected a continuation of that co-operation in the future. He closed by expressing himself as seeing the urgent necessity for the improvement of the Penfield road through the state forests and was heartily in favor of the project.

A home-made parody on the "Long Long Trail," which depicted the difficulties incident to an attempt to negotiate the present Penfield road, was sung by Secretary Pierce of the Y. M. C. A., the audience joining in the chorus, preceded Commissioner Stuart's talk and he closed his remarks by stating his entire accord with the sentiment expressed by the song as he had "made the grade" one time with Billy Dague when he went but to lock the tree nursery over.

R. S. Ross, of the Forestry Department, who accompanied Mr. Stuart, then treated the assemblage to a moving picture forestry story, which was taken from an address of Governor Gifford Pinchot, while Forestry Commissioner, which presented Pennsylvania's forest situation and needs in a highly impressive manner, and which was very greatly enjoyed.

President Frantz then called for a rising vote of thanks from the assemblage and when this was given the highly successful meeting was declared adjourned.

Miss Host McGarry served a most excellent sea food dinner and really universal commendation for same.

SIoux CITY, IOWA, IN DANGER OF DAMAGE FROM BIG FLOOD

Sioux City, Iowa, Mar. 24.—Flood waters backed up from the Missouri River and crested low land in Sioux City during the night.

Residents abandoned their homes and fled before the advancing tide. The stream continued to rise, backing up waters of the Floyd River, which empties into the Missouri. A rise of another foot will submerge nearly forty blocks. The river rose two feet in the six hours ending at seven a. m.

A sharp rise in temperature brought a new menace to villages and farms below the huge ice gorge, which now extends ten miles below the city. Preparations were made to warn villages for fifty miles down the river when the ice begins to break and go out.

CHICKEN POX BOBS UP IN THIRD WARD; SEVEN CASES FOUND

Secretary Gaulin of the Board of Health says the life of a health officer is far from being a bed of roses and just about the time you think you have no disease conquered and its spreading stopped, along comes another pest, seizes hold of a child and the mother deciding the case is mild, fails to heed the ordinary rules of the Board of Health and soon the immediate vicinity of the first case is polluted with the contagion. This was demonstrated once more by an outbreak of chicken pox in the Third Ward school. Seven cases of chicken pox developed in the Third Ward the past seven days, with three new cases of diphtheria and two of scarlet fever brought its total of contagious diseases reported for the week up to twelve.

There are at present a total of 15 cases under quarantine in the town. They are located as follows:

First Ward: Diphtheria 1.

Second Ward: Diphtheria 2.

Third Ward: Chicken pox 7, diphtheria 1, scarlet fever 1.

Fourth Ward: Diphtheria 1, scarlet

PINCHOT ACT NEEDED TO REMEDY JUST SUCH A SITUATION AS EXISTS IN THE BLAIR COUNTY COURT AT THIS TIME

Five Men, All Having In Their Possession All the Necessary Equipment With Which To Make Booze, Are Set Free.

Altoona, March 23.—Five Blair county men, all but one having names of distinct foreign accent, were discharged by United States Commissioner Samuel I. Stoner when arraigned this forenoon on charges of having in their possession apparatus for the manufacture of intoxicating beverages. In none of the cases were the witnesses able to prove operation, a requirement under the federal law.

Information in the cases were made by members of the state constabulary. Each defendant had previously been required to answer a charge of violating the Woner act before an alderman or justice of the peace. In each case, the defendant was discharged by the magistrate, save one who was released by the court to answer the federal charge.

Officers testified that stills had been found in each of the houses visited but as they were not in operation, any liquor found, there could have been no conviction, although part of them were at least potentially guilty. In the case of Patrick Damiano of 712 Eleventh street, the officers stated that the improvised still was covered with cobwebs.

There was neither mash nor liquor found at the Damiano house. Commissioner Stoner declared there is no search and seizure law applying to any premises.

such cases and that it would be just as logical to confiscate a coffee pot or a quantity of ground coffee as to take a still or grain when no operation is evident.

Still Not Operated.

Michael Teufel, against whom information was made by Private Andrew Esliary of the state police, was alleged to have a still at his home, 41 East Seventh street. There was nothing to indicate that whiskey or any other beverage had been made there, although it was stated all the "tools" were found.

Bernard George of 217 Blair street, Hollidaysburg, was arraigned in county court last week. There was insufficient evidence against the man to bring about a conviction under the state law, Judge Thomas J. Baldridge declaring that if guilty of any offense, this man should answer to the federal courts. Both a still and mash were found at the George home but the apparatus was not in operation. Esliary was prosecutor.

Private Esliary was also the prosecutor in the case against Charles Zachowise of 2017 Fourteenth avenue. This man had a still and mash but no liquor. Chester Colowski of 2409 Fourteenth avenue was found with a still and mash when the officers made the raid but he was not operating. Neither did he have any liquor.

The passage of the pending Pinchot administration dry act will remedy this condition, as it makes provision for prosecution in all cases where the tools to violate the law are found on any premises.

OLD TIMER A GOOD SUBJECT FOR ANY LUNATIC ASYLUM

Karthaus, Pa., March 21, '23
I note an article in the Clearfield Progress dated March 19th, 1923, headed "Through Karthaus on a Rubber Neck Wagon" by "Ald Timer."

I hereby wish to correct a few statements made by the fool signing himself "Old Timer."

In the first place, if he had any lianhood about himself and knew the facts he writes about to be true, he would not have to be ashamed to sign his article with his name.

Karthaus, being a thriving mining town, everybody working and earning a good living, taking care of their families and having a few dollars left after paying all bills with which he may play poker, craps or buy worthless stocks, a pleasure which every blooded American, except "Old Timer" is entitled to.

He charges our local officers with evasion of duty. I defy anyone to enter Karthaus and disobey the law, and if "Old Timer" will make the proper information, he may rest assured that a warrant will be issued and executed regardless of the fact that he will not serve as constable.

He charges crap games going on Church property. I defy anyone to prove where any crap game has ever taken place on any church, school or in fact any public property of the township. The young men who play games are better church members than "Old Timer" ever dared be, and the "Deacon" he mentions in his article would be glad to give him a little talk on spiritualism to ram in his head, for he seems to have plenty of room for knowledge. "Old Timer" surely has some respect for a lady. In his article he does quite a little sweating, showing that he must come from some worthless stock where he was taught swear words instead of the alphabet.

Our local bank is governed by two of our representative citizens who care not how their depositors money is spent and in fact some new accounts have been opened by those playing the game.

If "Old Timer" is anxious to meet that "Sawed-off" fellow who blew all his money as a professional gambler, does not work, only owns the clothes he wears, the writer who happens to be that individual would be glad to meet him and supply him with some information that he must have missed, as it may come in handy for future use, or perhaps if his local bank needed an endorser on his notes, or maybe his children or wife might need a pair of shoes or wearing apparel, the "sawed-off fellow" is always anxious to help out some one to keep them from becoming an expense to the county.

I feel sorry for the lady to whom "Old Timer" mentioned these facts as it is a crime to poison a woman's mind, especially by one so foolish and not informed as "Old Timer."

If "Local Traveler" has any more articles to print about Karthaus, he will be doing the citizens a good turn by not exaggerating his facts, and will be welcomed as a brother. On his last visit, at which time he wrote an article on the doings of the town, he was recognized by several of our leading young men, who noticed that after a good meal at the Potter House, a hair cut and shave and some soap and water down below the white collar line, he made a fair representative for a newspaper and looked half respectable as he boarded the train for Gray.

Thanking you in advance for the insertion of this article, I am
ALBERT B. HARTMANN
Karthaus, Pa.
(The Sawed-Off Fellow)

(Editor's Note.—The articles referred to in the above contribution appear to have "stirred up the animals" and things down Karthaus way and our contributor above makes the same error he charges against "Local Traveler" and "Old Timer" by assuming to name the writer of the articles in question. In justice to the representative of this paper" and in all fairness we want to inform Mr. Hartmann that he is entirely mistaken in his surmise as neither the gentleman from Gray nor no other person even remotely connected with The Progress wrote either of the communications complained of. The name of a correspondent to a newspaper is withheld by the editor when so requested, but we have no hesitation in furnishing a "clean bill of health" to any person charged with contributing to this paper when they have not done so. No, Mr. Hartman, you are mistaken in your presumption.—Editor The Progress.

FRIENDS REGRET DEATH OF TWO SISTERS

Friends have received the sad news of the death of Miss Margaretta America Frank, well known to many of our people, she having again renewed old acquaintance, during a visit a few years ago at the home of Mrs. F. G. Chorpennig.

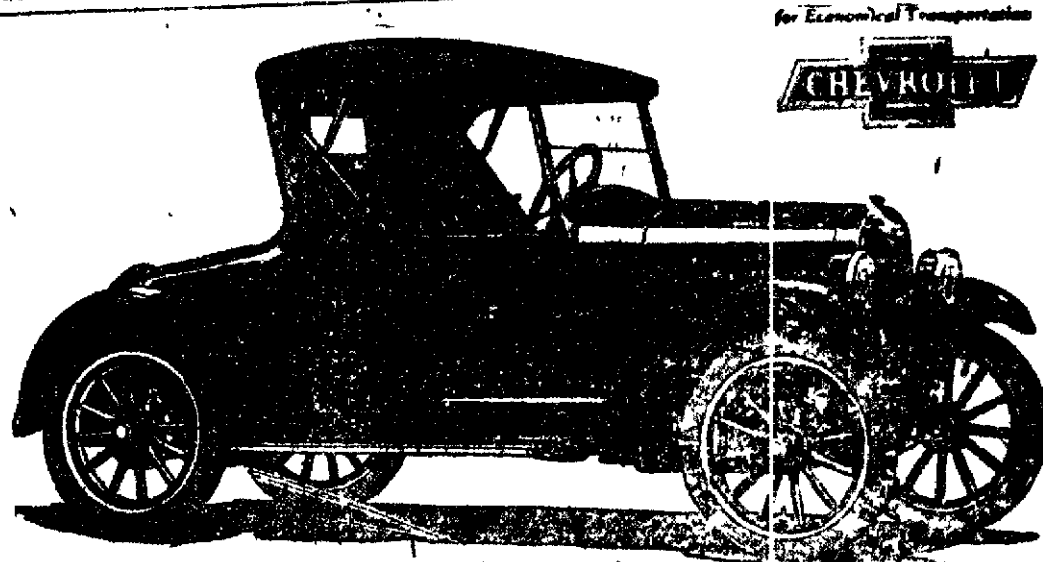

One the 6th of December Miss Frank tripped on a rug in her room and fell injuring her hip very severely, which caused her much suffering; ending in her death from cerebral hemorrhage on Friday, 29th of March, at Binghamton, N. Y. She was notable for her dignity, affability and intelligence and was always the centre of admiring friends.

To add to the sorrow of her family, ly, about 24 hours before she was called away, word came to them of the sudden taking away, at her home in Vancouver, Washington, of Rebecca, eldest of the family, wife of Rev Henry Swartz. This marriage took place in Clearfield and Mrs. Swartz proved to be the ideal wife and mother to a large and interesting family.

Mrs. E. W. Howe alone remains of the well known Frank family, of the earlier days of Clearfield. Their father, Squire M. A. Frank, also was Clearfield's first postmaster under Republican rule, during Lincoln's administration in the Sixties. After some years Mr. Frank had a very advantageous offer from Falls City, Nebraska, so that in '69 the family removed to that place, but at various times the different members of the family visited Clearfield thus showing their attachment to the place and people. Mr. Frank also held membership in the I. O. O. F. lodge in this place until his death a few years ago.

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The proposed changes in the game laws, now before the Legislature at Harrisburg, are bringing forth a great deal of discussion. The Game Commission which has given the matter expert and much attention and investigation, backed by their experience over a long term of years, offer a draft of the changes, they feel and necessary at this time to carry on the game work that has already been done along the line of game propagation and preservation. When this draft was presented and published, some of the provisions did not appeal to some hunters and sportsmen and they lost no time in saying so, while others equally interested, looked on with a word, strong in the belief that that which would do the greatest good to every interest concerned would finally come out of it all.

Some time ago Hon. Frank G. Harris, a Clearfield county hunter for six years, wrote a letter to the Game Commission, in which he went on record very strongly against the proposed advance in the price of a hunter's license in Pennsylvania from $1.00 to $1.50. In the course of his letter Mr. Harris mentioned the amount of revenue received by the State Game Commission from the hunter's license fund of Clearfield county and stated he would like to see a report of the amount of same returned to the county during the year.

Our friend John M. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, president of the State Game Commission, who saw Mr. Harris' letter, supplies this information in the following reply which we are pleased to be able to publish:—

Pittsburg, Pa., March 20, 1923.
J. D. Connelly, Esq.,
The Clearfield Progress,
Clearfield, Penna.
Friend Connelly:—

I note in your issue of March 21st that you publish a letter from Mr. Frank G. Harris. Evidently, Mr. Harris has not kept in touch with the work of the Game Commission, and as "the acknowledged champion of the Clearfield county hunters" takes exception to the proposed increase in the Resident Hunters License Fee.

This was proposed by the Citizens Committee on the Finance of the State of Pennsylvania and approved by the Governor. I have talked with single sportsmen and with sportsmen's organizations all over the state, and when they know that the increase will be used for purchasing game preserves with hunting grounds surrounding them, and maintaining same, they are heartily in favor of it.

As you are perhaps aware, Allegheny county issues about 25,000 licenses yearly. We have no game preserve, such as you are blessed with and we do not receive over $1,000.00 worth of game yearly, and receive practically no bounties. We have one game protector at a salary of $1,500.00 per year. The balance of our money is spent in mountainous counties where it is suitable for game and game sanctuaries. I have known many hunters to purchase their licenses in Clearfield county but have never known a Clearfield county hunter to purchase his license in Allegheny.

Below, I hand you a statement showing the revenue from and disbursements for your county for the year 1922:

Net revenue from 1922 Resident Hunters' License $11,066.40

DISBURSEMENTS
Salary and expenses of Game Protector $2,490.58
Salary and expenses special help employed 720.56
16 Salary and expenses supervisory officer 664.24
Salary and expenses refuge keeper 1,096.34
NOTE: In past years considerably more than sum shown was spent on Refuge No. 2
Bounties paid in Clearfield county 3,049.06
Game purchased and distributed in that county approximately 613.50
167 Amount expended for feeding & caring for game 59.13
167 Administrative charges for general office force and bounty division 538.31

Total disbursements $9,226.69

Mustard Plaster Gives Up To Electric Light
In Treating Pneumonia

New York, March 24.—The prosaic mustard plaster has paved the way for a new treatment of pneumonia, which promises to control that disease.

Electric lights are applied to the patient's chest and back in this new treatment, and the temperature of the lungs is raised.

This, according to Doctor Natanson of Jersey City who has experimented with the device, is an improvement on the old mustard plaster. "Mustard plasters have saved the lives of many pneumonia patients," he said. "That kind of heat, however, does penetrate inside the lungs sufficient."

The new method developed by Doctor Stewart of Yale and introduced at St. Mary's hospital at Hoboken by Dr. Brooser carries heat deep into the lungs without pain and without burning the skin. An electric current passes through the body and some experiments have shown an increase of temperature in the lungs to one hundred fifteen degrees Fahrenheit.

Seven Points of Supremacy

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTERS" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the insoles are cut from standard outsole leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTERS" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamp and sole leather box toes. This feature prevents ripping at the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The insoles are shoulder channelled so that they fit tightly against the outside. There is no need or room for a cork filler. A small piece of duck is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Calfein inside corner pocket is of great value for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTER" heels are 1/4 inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with 3-oz. duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, thus keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Edmonds' "FOOT-FITTER" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's bandage. "FOOT-FITTERS" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

GIVING GOD A SQUARE DEAL

Several years ago we heard a female children, the trading stock of the square deal. So far have men advanced in the attitude of the square deal that today, in all the Christian countries at least, woman is the equal of men in the eyes of the law, and, indeed, is even given that greater protection under the law to which she is entitled by reason of her being physically unable to defend herself as is the masculine. Children are given the square deal of equal opportunity through the medium of laws regulating and restricting child labor and that great American institution, the free public school. We have made such progress in looking after the well being of mankind, and we have set up such safeguards as seem to guarantee the opportunity of every child coming into the world, that we have become dependent almost wholly on our man made economic scheme and little attention is given to the source from which we sprang. To be sure, no one blames God when our social and economic system breaks down, and for the same reason, no one attributes any of our manifold blessings to God.

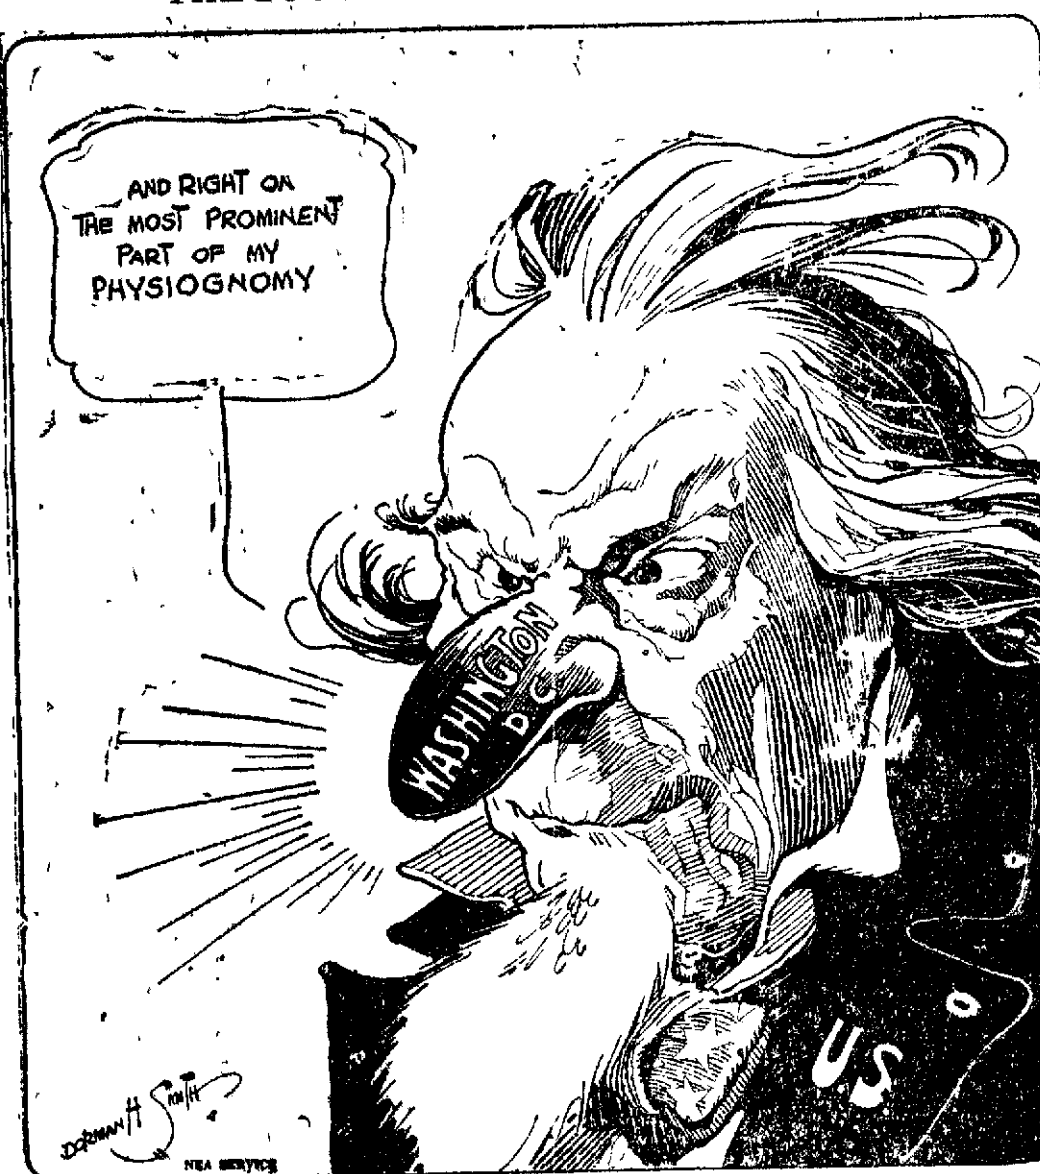

God has come to be looked upon as the great unseen and unknown being who by some magical means, not interesting to us, simply started this world to revolving after the six days labor was done in creating it, until today, this lack of communion between God and man is causing grave doubts to arise in the minds of men polluted by half baked scientific and writers who, following a false philosophy and teaching, and through vanity set out to prove that man descended from monkeys. I prefer to look at it reversely and believe that man, in many instances, has abused himself to the level of the animal kingdom by a continued denial of God and His laws.

I enter on the subject of this article "Giving God A Square Deal," by affirming my belief that there is a God, an all powerful, always present, all knowing God; a personal God, if you please, who, although reigning in Heaven is here and everywhere with whom we can commune, to whom we owe everlasting gratitude for our very being, and for the earth whereupon he has placed us, not that we might seek pleasures and pleasures that we might feed and be gluttons, but that we might seek and give him love and die and become extinct, but that we might perform our part as individuals in the great Divine plan which is unfolded in the scriptures, and finally, on that least great day, take our place in that haven, not made with hands, from whose borne no traveler ever returned and where the children of God will live eternally. This is almost a universal creed and none but the infidel will deny it in substance. Yet, in spite of this deep, underlying belief of man in general, each and every one of us, by our daily life and action deny, insult and provoke God. And, let me say it is my understanding that belief alone in this creed will not suffice to appease God. The Mohammedan four or five times a day chants "Alla breath" and similar phrases, repeating it over and over. It is his method of acknowledging God. I am a Presbyterian, strong in the faith, but I believe strongly in the Methodist doctrine of faith translated into deeds, and have a profound respect for that obedience to law and respect for God and what belongs to God that is so firmly imbedded in the heart and mind of the communicant of the Roman Catholic church.

At this time far have we gone to give the man with the abnormal, unnatural and uncontrollable appetite a square deal by taking away from him the things which are harmful and which hinder his fulfilling the mission of the God who gave him health and living. For centuries woman was a chattel and children, especially the female children, the trading stock of the square deal. So far have men advanced in the attitude of the square deal that today, in all the Christian countries at least, woman is the equal of men in the eyes of the law, and, indeed, is even given that greater protection under the law to which she is entitled by reason of her being physically unable to defend herself as is the masculine. THE BOOTLEGGGER'S MASTERPIECE!

God created the universe and all that is within, therein and thereupon. Possibly the human mind is not capable of comprehending what a wonderful and what a terrible power He is. The very magnitude of His power, when we reflect upon it, is incomprehensible and possibly that accounts, in part, for the indifferent manner in which His name is taken in vain and His works estimated.

We are given these days to taking things for granted. So many great and wonderful things are happening, our senses are dulled. Our hold day finds no cause for wonderment in the radio which makes of the air a slave, the X-ray which sends a ray of light through a hitherto impenetrable substance and photographs what lays within, or the light which flows in rays from the incandescent bulb. All were here when he came and he takes them as a matter of course. It is not for him to inquire as to where they came from; they are his to use. In much the same manner we use the great things that God has given us without a thought of the source of our blessings.

Why have we going in our mad race for to tune and place through the air these "things" something to amuse the Godless? God's plan seems to have been deranged, or to speak by the imagination of a condition which requires every man, if a wage or salary earner, to cut the corner. Our industrial life with the development of commerce has brought about a condition wherein it is difficult to distinguish between week days and the Holy Sabbath, on which we are commanded to do no labor, except by the tolling of the church bells and the appearance of the pale choir singer instead of the true praise singer. I cannot help but think that the people of fifty years ago, living a more simple and less accelerated life, were closer to God and had the greater opportunities to be near God. The man who is as close today must necessarily keep in that position by running in a circle.

It is idle to think for even a moment that the Creator put man here as a mere toy or as a pawn to be moved about by Him as an inanimate part of a great machine or in an aimless fashion. Rather would I believe that a man was giving life and reason in order that he might be a free agent, having all the faculties with which to discern his particular tasks and duties in the Divine plan and the physical strength and mental capacity to perform those tasks.

That God has a definite plan and purpose is made clear to me by His creation of the human race endowed with mental power and made more clear by the sending of Christ, His Son, to give us the law and the commandments.

First of all we owe God the homage that is due Him as our creator; for our very being, and the manifold privileges, blessings and associations that we enjoy and none but the basest of us would refuse to acknowledge that debt. Those of us who are Christians realize however that acknowledgment of a debt and payment of that debt are entirely different. We cannot give God a square deal and withhold the service that is required of us as payment on our debt. Acknowledgment of God and our debt to Him, although deserved by God, appreciated by God, and imprinted on our part, is only the first or preparatory act constituting a square deal.

I endeavored in my opening remarks to point out that the square deal was made possible and guaranteed man, woman and child by the safeguarding of all the rights and privileges of mankind and our efforts in this direction have resulted in curbing those tendencies which would interfere with the normal development of the human life.

We can give God a square deal only by the same methods. His law must be hallowed, His works sacred, His laws obeyed. We must accept or allow God to be obeyed in the way of His plan.

Knowing the law and the commandments as we do, and having the benefit of the wisdom of centuries, we must recognize them as such and translate our better impulses into deeds. The good intention that we have, those impulses that sweep over us when we see a good deed that can be done, must surely come from God; at least they are the outgrowth of the seed of charity that He has planted within us and we fail to carry out our mission of fellowship and brotherly love when we selfishly push these impulses aside and go about our selfish business. Just as true charity begins at home, so does pede the progress of the Hygiene plan when we are uncharitable to our fellow man. I have seen well-meaning but thoughtless churchmen, yes, even gentlemen of the cloth, give such treatment to their fellow creatures on certain occasions, as to cause a doubt to arise as to the righteousness and holiness of the former. The anger growing out of such happenings sometimes profanity, is provoked and one can hardly blame the individual who resents as much as the one who is the cause of the trouble. We often give men cause for anger out of which comes profanity and blasphemy. When we are a party to such a thing we are not playing fair with God who intimated that we should be brother to all men.

Truly God's ways are mysterious and beyond understanding and while we carry on our everlasting search for understanding let us be very careful, even fearful, lest we put an obstacle in the way of the man who would go right of his own volition if we be giving God a "square deal."

left alone. Let us not be finding and criticizing others are just as eager, just as sincere, equally as zealous workers, howe'er, may be following a different path.

God's plan will never be completed until Christ is accepted by all. God sent Christ, His only Son, to save the world. The church He describes as Christ's bride. We cannot give God a square deal and hold ourselves aloof from the church and the work that the church has to perform. It is indeed a peculiar and a sorry state of mind that the man is in who believes that he can merit God's commendation without giving his talents to the church. He is in the same category as the man who would refuse the government without ever casting a vote.

Finaly, let me say, to God we owe all. When in return we have rendered to God all that we possess and have staked in the way of the man who and held, then, and then only, will we be giving God a "square deal."

An "Ardent Harmony."
In all great poets there must be an ardent harmony... sweetness that cannot be weak and force that will not be tough. There must be an ardent and a resolution of excellence which will allow no shortcoming or malformation of thought or word; there must also be so natural a sense of right as to make any such deformity or defect impossible, and leave upon the work done no trace of any effort to avoid or to achieve.—Swainburne.

Juvenile Reasoning.
Roland was carrying in wood from a pile his father had just split, and instead of taking it from the side nearest the house he went around on the other side every time, thus decreasing the size of the pile from the back. His father asked why he didn't take it from the side nearest and he replied: "Well, after a while I'll be tired and then I won't have so far to go for it."

SUNDAY TRAINS TO
BE RESTORED ON
B. R. & P. RAILWAY

The B. R. & P. railway, company has arranged to restore passenger service on the C. & M. and Indiana Division beginning April 29th 1928.

This announcement will indeed be welcome news to Clearfield business men and the traveling public generally and will once more allow the B. R. & P. to assert without fear of contradiction that they look carefully after the needs of their patrons but in the matter of freight and passenger service.

The Sunday trains were taken off following the ending of the World War when it was necessary to curtail passenger service whenever possible in order to give right of way to coal and freight to assist in the industrial revival of the country.

The Sunday schedule will be the same as that of week days now—two trains per day each way.

New York, March 24.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora today called the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" and "Mr. Wilson" to his office to tell what they know about the death of Miss King, "butterfly of Broadway."

The authorities are working on the theory that a plot existed to blackmail Marshall, whose real name is not known and who is thought to be a millionaire. The King girl was to have been used by the plotters, but according to this theory, she refused to play her part thereupon the blackmailers chloroformed her.

BOXES OF GOLD

Yandella begins between Michael Sayers, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead the officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. While Sir Norman is living at his country house the police ask him to help capture a criminal whom they believe to be at the head of a dangerous gang. On his way to London, Greyes' car is stopped and he is shot through the shoulder. Greyes asks Janet to dine with him. Janet accepts. Acting upon Michael's command Janet puts poison in Sir Norman's coffee, but regrets her act and purposely spoils the cup. Sayers tells this episode:

I WAS at St. Pancras Station to meet Gerty and Metzger on their arrival in England. I saw the brown black tin boxes with brass handles, loaded out of the guard van and placed on the roof of a taxicab. I saw a man in a dark suit and a woman in a light dress. I saw the contents of those boxes would be mine before the week was out. I felt certain, too, that one at least of the two men would fight to death before I obtained possession of them. They were well worth it, however.

It was a foggy night, and I lit a cigarette with perfect safety on the steps of the little throng of people who had come to greet those two men. They were a rough lot, on the whole—men of the lowest type, swarthy and unclean. I saw hungry glances directed toward those black boxes, and I knew that, given sufficient cunning and address, I should not be the first by a long way to strike a blow for their acquisition. One of these others I had no fear. Gerty and Metzger knew their friends, knew them well enough not to trust them.

I walked back through the fog to my humble little flat in Adam Street. There were gloomy days, even for me, who cared little about the physical comforts of life. I was passing on Mr. Arthur Youngblood, L.L.B., a cousin of the well-known editor of Lincoln's Inn, in town to consult upon a matter of reference at the British Museum. Day by day I walked to that gloomy museum of dead knowledge, spent an hour or so there, and back to my room. No one dared my footsteps. By devious ways I had shaken off all pursuit and suspicion. Yet life was a wearisome thing. I am not a man with many human pleasures. I should have welcomed a visit from Janet—a little dinner, perhaps, at the Cafe Royal, a peep into the world of many-colored pleasure outside of which my path lay. Those things, however, I knew were not for me. Janet was watched, as I knew not, she had failed me in my last demand, Janet presented a problem to be solved.

On the third day after the arrival of Gerty and Metzger, I visited my relatives, the firm of Youngblood, Nicholson and Youngblood, at Lincoln's Inn. My reputed cousin granted me an interview within a few minutes of my arrival. We spoke for a time of my studies and their progress. Then there was a pause. The door was closed, the walls of the room were thick.

"Things progress," I demanded, leaning across his wide, untidy table. Mr. Youngblood emitted benevolently. In these moments of direct speech I was accustomed to forget my assumed personality and to speak with all the quick incisiveness that was natural to me. My legal adroitness, however, never altered his manner of reply or deportment. He was always the same, unctuous, legal, courtly.

"Your affairs are in excellent train," he assured me. "Of the two people in whom we are interested,

MANUFACTURERS OF PALM BEACH CLOTH REGULATE PRICES

Washington, March 24.—The federal Trade Commission today issued a complaint against the Goodall-Waysted Company of Sanford, Maine, manufacturers of palm beach cloth, alleging adherence to standard fixed prices in violation of the law.

The Goodall Company, the complaint charges, by use of a so-called "tie-up agreement" set the minimum price at which manufacturers must sell palm beach cloth to wholesalers and retailers. Manufacturers who do not agree to abide by these regulations are refused this product the complaint charges.

WIFE OF SECRETARY OF WAR WEEKS VERY ILL AT WASHINGTON

Washington, March 24.—The condition of Mrs. John Weeks, wife of Secretary of War Weeks, who became seriously ill on a yacht off the coast of Georgia, is now considerably improved but she is still weak.

Mrs. Weeks reached Washington in the night and had to be removed to her home in an ambulance. Secretary Weeks said that her condition was not serious.

of a bedroom, bathroom and sitting-room only, and is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Miguel, very rich South Americans. They are leaving tonight by motorcar for Southampton to catch the steamer there for Buenos Aires in the morning.

"Their luggage is already packed?" I asked.

"Already packed," Mr. Youngblood answered. "The porters have commented upon its weight."

"And Madam?"

"Appears to have fulfilled her task," was the somewhat hesitating answer.

I detected signs of uneasiness in my companion's speech, and I questioned him about it promptly.

"Have you doubts of the woman," I asked.

"None whatever," Mr. Youngblood assured me blandly. "At the same time, she is, without doubt, the weakest link in the chain. She has a temperamental enough—Mr. Metzger seems to have been an easy victim; but I should have had more confidence in the lady who visited me the other day."

"I can no longer put complete faith in my wife," I replied coldly.

Mr. Youngblood was startled out of his dignified serenity of manner. He leaned across the table, and asked me, "Do you mean by that, he demanded harshly, 'Do you know that she has been here, the one place in London you should have been careful to keep her away from, if you had any doubts?'"

"I have no doubts whatever as to her fidelity," I declared. "You know what I mean when I say that, in the parlance of our friends, she has gone soft. It is a pity."

Mr. Youngblood seemed relieved, but puzzled. "A woman who could do what she did on the golf links at Woking," he murmured reminiscently, "must have changed very much if she merits your present criticism."

The subject was by no means a pleasant one to me. I abandoned it. "In any case," I reminded him, "she is in touch with Greyes, and he knows too much."

"Wonderful capacity for existence, that man," Mr. Youngblood remarked suavely.

HARSH deeds—I am not a lover of them. I seldom go out of my way to kill, or allow my subordinates to do so, if my ends can be obtained otherwise. At that moment, however, I felt a sudden resurgence into my brain of that one bloodthirsty desire of my life.

"As soon as this affair is safely concluded," I said, "and we are in funds once more, I shall take occasion to deal with Norman Greyes myself."

"It occurs to me that you would be well advised," my companion acquiesced. "The person in question possesses the one gift which might make him dangerous to us. He has imagination."

I nodded. I was tracing figures upon the blotting-paper, debating with myself different methods of dealing with Norman Greyes.

"Every channel which might lead to the firm of Youngblood, Nicholson and Youngblood," the lawyer continued meditatively, "seems, so far as human ingenuity could arrange it, permanently blocked, but a man with imagination who is not afraid to work on guesswork is always to be feared."

"It will not be my fault," I promised, as I took my leave, "if you have any cause to fear Norman Greyes after the next month or so."

That night, in the language of those forgotten war communiques, everything happened according to plan. At a quarter to nine Metzger, who was writing alone in a sitting-room, heard a soft knocking at the door which communicated with the adjoining suite. He rose promptly, unlocked the outside door of his own rooms, and softly withdrew the bolt of the door of the next suite. He stood there with an inviting smile upon his ugly face. Madam de Miguel laid a cautioning finger upon her somewhat creased lips as she stole over the threshold.

"There is one hour that my husband will be away," she whispered, gliding past him. "You may kiss me."

Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sleep, I could not eat, I could not do my work except a little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day some one threw your little book on to my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I went right out and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took two more. Now I am in perfect health. I do all of my own work and could do more. I can truly say that I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me my health."—Mrs. O. J. HINCKLEY, 316 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

LESSON FOR MARCH 25 REVIEW

JESUS THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

GOLDEN TEXT—This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.—1 Timothy 1:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Favorite Story of the Quarter
JUNIOR TOPIC—Favorite Lessons of the Quarter
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Luke's Picture of Jesus
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lessons From Luke's Gospel

The method of review must be determined by the grade of the class, by the text of the teachers and by the nature of the studies of the quarter. Three methods are suggested:

(1) Centering in the Topic—Jesus the World's Savior. This method is suggested by Doctor Crandell.

1. The World's Liberator.
2. From Diseases. Lessons 1, 5.
3. From "Legalism." Lesson 1.
4. From Fidelity. Lessons 2, 6.
5. From Selfishness. Lessons 2, 5.
6. From Prejudice. Lesson 7.
7. From the Sinful Past. Lesson 7.
8. The World's Teacher.
9. About Sin and Salvation. Lesson 5.
10. About Human Duty:
(a) To Others. Lessons 2, 4.
(b) To God. Lessons 5, 8, 9.
(c) To State. Lesson 2.
(d) With Money. Lessons 4, 8, 9.
11. About Prayer. Lesson 6.
12. The World's Sacrifice.
1. Sacrifice Faced, Accepted. Lesson 10.
2. Sacrifice Rendered. Lesson 11.
(2) Modern Applications of the Lessons. This scheme calls for reports by members of the class to whom assignments were previously made. This is taken from Peloubet's Notes.

Lesson I. "What should we keep of the old-time Sabbath?"

Lesson II. "Why is it hard to be humble today?"

Lesson III. "Are our churches really open to the prodigals?"

Lesson IV. "What should our rich men do for our Lazaruses?"

Lesson V. "Men and women who deserve much gratitude and receive little."

Lesson VI. "What may we reasonably expect from prayer?"

Lesson VII. "Why is it hard for a modern business man to be a Christian?"

Lesson VIII. "How the church should utilize its average members."

Lesson IX. "How can we get our church members to give as much as they should?"

Lesson X. "Things that Christians do not prize enough."

Lesson XI. "How the message of the cross might be brought to all men in a generation."

(3) The Central Teaching of the Lessons:

Lesson I. There is no malady of man connected with soul or body which Jesus cannot heal.

Lesson II. Unselfishness will move one to humbly take the lowest place in life, esteeming others better than himself.

Lesson III. God is longing and waiting to welcome to His bosom the vilest sinner who comes with contrition of heart.

Lesson IV. The one who lives only for this life shall surely suffer agony and torment in the life to come.

Lesson V. Ingratitude is common to the natural heart. The Lord expects those who experience His salvation to give Him their love.

Lesson VI. Those who pray to God in the right spirit shall surely get the blessings sought.

Lesson VII. The supreme purpose of the coming of Jesus Christ to the earth, taking upon Himself our humanity, and dying on the cross was to save lost men.

Lesson VIII. Upon those who have not been faithful in the use of gifts the Lord shall execute judgment at His coming.

Lesson IX. We are responsible to God, but God measures our gifts by the extent of our ability.

Lesson X. Bitter agony was suffered by Christ when He bore our sins.

Lesson XI. In Christ's death a full price was paid for our sins.

What God Remembers.

"I," says God, "all remember." How sweet to think of what God will, and what He will not, remember! He will remember his own covenant, but He will not remember His people's sins. The cross, which rattles the former, puts away the latter.—C. H. McIntosh.

God's Offer.

Back of our ignorance and uncertainty God stands with His offer of wisdom and guidance to all who will ask it.

No Truer Picture.

There is no truer picture of what history reveals than a crucifix.—Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy.

The Lix.

Sin has many tools, but a life is the handle that fits them all.—O. W. Holmes.

The Yellow Dogs answered to the call of the leader of the pack and gathered in one of the rooms of the High School building Thursday evening for a dance to a lot of new dogs he given a chance to show at the house of sociability. The Yellow Dogs has become quite an item in the list of social organizations in Curwensville, and fellows are being taught to hunt who never howled before. Quite a few dogs were added to the membership roll Thursday night. There is only one thing that these Yellow Dogs would not do, and that is a visit of Colonel 3 who to our town. Otherwise let them bark away.

"We are told that the people of Curwensville and those who live beyond, are putting forth strenuous efforts to improve a state highway from being built from Curwensville to Lumber City in the river route. This should not be, as that stretch of highway is made more badly than the one from Curwensville across to Bull's Landing, a route the Curwensville folks are working so hard to land. The Lumber City folks stand no fuss or objection to a highway from Curwensville to Curwensville, a why should the hill folks oppose a road that would greatly benefit their neighbors, without wheeling across a dirt road to connect with a state road leading to Curwensville. Lumber City and Curwensville people as well as all citizens residing along the proposed route, want the river and built and three or four petitions signed by hundreds of persons petitioning the State Highway Commission."

DuBois Not So Wet Since State Police Began To Rout Out Moonshiners

DuBois, March 24.—The state police, who have been showing great activity in this city during the past several weeks in regard to the cleaning out of moonshiners, again showed the result of their investigations yesterday, visiting the home of Joseph Vitrella, of Dixon avenue. The raid was conducted shortly after the noon hour, and was under the direction of Privates Russell Barker and Harold Pierce, assisted by Federal Agent Nicholas Crease.

When the officers entered the store and dwelling occupied by Vitrella they immediately made a thorough search and uncovered a large supply of mash and liquor. There was a total of 1150 gallons of mash in the process of fermentation, while 600 gallons of French product wine was found concealed on the premises. Vitrella was placed under arrest and taken before Alderman Jos. Bogden where he was held under $1,500 bail for court. Details of the state police have been working in this section for some little time and have done a fine work in the raiding of moonshine joints. Some unusually big hauls have been made, and it is declared the work will be continued until all of the 'shiners have been apprehended.

DERAILED CAR ON R. R. & P. MESSED UP TRACK BADLY

A derailed car in the middle of a hundred car New York Central train tore the devil out of the rails generally from a point near the R. R. & P. passenger station at West Market street down to the siding into the Independent Oil Company gas service station last evening.

The long train came down the road about 8:30 o'clock being transported by two engines, one at the head of the train to lead the way, with a "pusher" bringing up the rear.

It is said that a local painter and paper hanger had gone to the home of a customer on Williams street for the purpose of figuring on a painting job. He parked his car too close to the railroad track and when the train came along the engine took the car a smash and hauled it over into the ditch. Slipping on his air, the engine checked his train so suddenly that a wooden gondola between two cars buckled and hopped the track near the station.

After signaling the rear engine of the train, the head brakeman ran back along the line and cutting his train at the break the head engine started on the road with half the train.

A train of 100 cars is approximately one mile long and consequently the rear end of the train was around the curve at the foot of Coal Hill and not knowing the situation the engineer of the "pusher" thinking the trouble a half mile ahead had been adjusted and started for the yard. The derailed car was bumped along over the ties and across the West Market street sidewalk down as far as the oil company siding. The ties and sidewalk were torn to pieces and considerable damage done to the main track as well as the siding into the oil station.

We don't know how it works generally but we do know here was an object lesson in favor of the full rear proposition, because when the head brakeman left with his end of the train and the conductor was forced to protect the rear end there was nobody to look after the front end of the wrecked train until an outsider volunteered to act in the emergency and act as liaison officer between the wrecked car and its load of coal.

was dumped over the river bank by the wrecking crew which worked all night long to clear the track for traffic.

They have proved that Jewett Six will stand hard service under all conditions. Because it is the sturdiest car of its size or price—whether four or six. Because it weighs 2805 pounds—200 pounds more than "light sixes." Because it has a husky six-inch frame, with wide top flange, four rugged cross-braces, and high-duty Paige-Timken axles, front and rear.

Jewett owners have proved its wonderful reserve power, as well. Power that soft roads and stubborn hills never tax. Because Jewett has a Paige-built motor of fifty horsepower that literally fills the hood! The largest built for a medium-sized six. Running at moderate speed gives it long-lived dependability, free from usual wear.

These 25,000 owners have proved Jewett outperforms any car of its class. Because no car this size has 249 cubic inches piston displacement. Most power for weight within $200 of its price. In spite of its husky strength Jewett carries but 11 1/2 pounds of weight to each inch piston displacement, where comparable cars carry 14 to 16. The answer is easy!

They have proved, these owners, that Jewett doesn't overheat or get noisy. The hollow crankshaft high-pressure oiling system forces 2 gallons of oil per minute to all main and connecting-rod bearings. This best-oiled motor in a medium-sized car stays smooth and young.

These 25,000 owners, won in one short year from its announcement, have proved that Jewett Six has amazing pep and pickup. Accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds. Little wonder Jewett has shattered hill-climbing records the country over! Two miles an hour in traffic to 60 on the highway—in high gear. Flexibility that pleases all.

Finally, these 25,000 owners have proved Jewett unrivaled for easy riding and substantial comfort. Extra long springs, deep roomy cushions, wide seats, and substantial construction tell why. And Jewett has handling ease unequalled except in the Paige.

What these 25,000 owners have proved for themselves we shall be glad to prove to you. At your first convenience, see the big-six value Jewett gives at $995!

GERMANY NOT READY FOR PEACE MOVE IN RUHR OCCUPATION

Washington, D. C., Mar. 24.—Germany is not yet ready for an agreement in regard to the Ruhr, according to information obtained today.

A recent communication to the United States and Great Britain stated the position of Germany in the occupation and how far the Cuno government would go toward a settlement, and in stated as a first requisite for negotiations that the French troops be withdrawn.

This information strongly indicates that the struggle between the two countries in the Ruhr will continue for some time before settlement can be agreed upon or even open peace negotiations undertaken.

SIoux CITY, IOWA, IN DANGER OF DAMAGE FROM BIG FLOOD

Sioux City, Iowa, Mar. 24.—Flood waters backed up from the Missouri River and crested low land in Sioux City during the night.

Residents abandoned their homes and fled before the advancing tide. The stream continued to rise, backing up waters of the Floyd River, which empties into the Missouri. A rise of another foot will submerge nearly forty blocks. The river rose two feet in the six hours ending at seven a. m.

A sharp rise in temperature brought a new menace to villages and farms below the huge ice gorge, which now extends ten miles below the city. Preparations were made to warn villages for fifty miles down the river when the ice begins to break and go out.

CHICKEN POX BOBS UP IN THIRD WARD; SEVEN CASES FOUND

Secretary Gaulin of the Board of Health says the life of a health officer is far from being a bed of roses and just about the time you think you have no disease conquered and its spread stopped, along comes another pest, seizes hold of a child and the mother deciding the case is mild, fails to heed the ordinary rules of the Board of Health and soon the immediate vicinity of the first case is polluted with the contagion. This was demonstrated once more by an outbreak of chicken pox in the Third Ward school. Seven cases of chicken pox developed in the Third Ward the past seven days, with three new cases of diphtheria and two of scarlet fever brought the total of contagious diseases reported for the week up to twelve.

There are at present a total of 15 cases under quarantine in the town. They are located as follows:

First Ward: Diphtheria 1.

Second Ward: Diphtheria 2.

Third Ward: Chicken pox 7, diphtheria 1, scarlet fever 1.

Fourth Ward: Diphtheria 1, scarlet fever 2.

HARDING, PRESSING FOR ECONOMY, MAY CALL EXTRA SESSION

St. Augustine, Fla., Mar. 24.—President Harding is said to be considering convening Congress early in the autumn to pass on government organization plans as a means to cut down taxes. He is, however, unwilling to summon an extra session, but finds with the demand for tax revision, he must find a way to save before taxes can be reduced.

Owing to Mr. Harding's refusal to let anything interfere with his vacation, decision on this matter will go over until his return to Washington. A conference with Cabinet members will precede the session of Congress.

Washington, D. C., Mar. 24.—The government is now faced with a deficit of one hundred eighty million dollars for the fiscal year ending July 1st, despite increased taxes, budget officials announced today.

Although steps now are being taken to hammer down this amount, according to John Lord, head of the Budget Bureau, belief is that only a small reduction in the deficit can be accomplished before the beginning of the next fiscal year.

PINCHOT ACT NEEDED TO REMEDY JUST SUCH A SITUATION AS EXISTS IN THE BLAIR COUNTY COURT AT THIS TIME

Five Men, All Having In Their Possession All the Necessary Equipment With Which To Make Booze, Are Set Free.

PINCHOT ACT WOULD DO

Altoona, March 23.—Five Blair county men, all but one having names of distinct foreign accent, were discharged by United States Commissioner Samuel I. Stoner when arraigned this forenoon on charges of having in their possession apparatus for the manufacture of intoxicating beverages. In none of the cases were the witnesses able to prove operation, a requirement under the federal law.

Information in the cases were made by members of the state constabulary. Each defendant had previously been required to answer a charge of violating the Woner act before an alderman or justice of the peace. In each case, the defendant was discharged by the magistrate, save one who was released by the court to answer the federal charge.

Officers testified that stills had been found in each of the houses visited but as they were not in operation, any liquor found, there could have been no conviction, although part of them were at least potentially guilty. In the case of Patrick Damiano of 712 Eleventh street, the officers stated that the improvised still was covered with cobwebs.

There was neither mash nor liquor found at the Damiano house. Commissioner Stoner declared there is no search and seizure law applying to any premises.

C. H. S. LOSES TO ERIE 36 TO 34 TODAY AFTER TROUNCING SHARON 32 TO 23 AT LAST NIGHT'S GAME

Put Up a Valiant and Glorious Fight Against Fresh Team Conceded To Be Strong.

OUT OF RACE NOW

Well, we are not going to be the state champions in interscholastic basketball, but our boys certainly gave those westerners, and north westerners a run for their money at that.

In this afternoon's game at Grove City, C. H. S. by reason of drawing lots for opponents, drew the strong Erie Central team. The boys had been thru a grueling contest last night from which they emerged victors with flying colors and the strong Erie Central team; touted as the giants of the state, were pitted against them this afternoon fresh and in the pink of physical condition, in being their luck to draw the blank last night and they did not play.

In this afternoon's game the local boys showed all the form for which they are justly famous and allowed the Erie boys to defeat them by only two points.

The final score this afternoon was 36 to 34 in favor of Erie.

C. H. S. is therefore out of the race.

HUNTERS MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

A meeting of all Clearfield county hunters interested will be held in the Arbitration room of the court house Monday evening.

The new game bill as now written will be read and discussed at this meeting and all should be present as recommendations regarding the new provisions will be made.

such cases and that it would be just as logical to confiscate a coffee pot or a quantity of ground coffee as to take a still or grain when no operation is evident.

Still Not Operated.

Michael Teufel, against whom information was made by Private Andrew Esary of the state police was alleged to have a still at his home, 41 East Seventh street. There was nothing to indicate that whiskey or any other beverage had been made there, although it was stated all the "tools" were found.

Bernard George of 217 Blair street, Hollidaysburg, was arraigned in county court last week. There was insufficient evidence against the man to bring about a conviction under the state law, Judge Thomas J. Baldridge declaring that if guilty of any offense, this man should answer to the federal courts. Both a still and mash were found at the George home but the apparatus was not in operation. Esary was prosecutor.

Private Esary was also the prosecutor in the case against Charles Zachowise of 2017 Fourteenth avenue. This man had a still and mash but no liquor. Chester Colowski of 2409 Fourteenth avenue was found with a still and mash when the officers made the raid but he was not operating. Neither did he have any liquor.

The passage of the pending Pinchot administration dry act will remedy this condition, as it makes provision for prosecution in all cases where the tools to violate the law are found on any premises.

Five teams from the western part of the state are competing for the western championship. A like number are competing at State College for the eastern championship. The winner at Grove City and the winner at State College will then compete for the state championship.

Ridgway and Sharon were eliminated by last night's game. Either Erie or Clearfield would be eliminated this afternoon and Oil City, the victorious team last night tonight will play the winner of this afternoon's game. Clearfield was unfortunate in drawing for position as the local team will have to win three straight to be champs. Drawing Erie admittedly the best team in the bunch for this afternoon was unfortunate too, for even should C. H. S. win this afternoon, it will be a fresh team that she must play tonight.

but every Clearfielder will admire the battle that they put up and think none the less of them. Greet them as victors when they return home for that they really are.

Tonight Erie and Oil City will play for the championship of the western part of the state.

Grove City, Pa., March 24.—Mercer county's chances of coping sectional floor game honors in the schoolboy basketball tournament of the Northwestern Pennsylvania counties, being played off here on the college floor, were crushed last night in the defeat of her representative team, Sharon High, which was counted out by the Clearfield five in a game ending 32-23 in favor of the north county passers. The game was the second of the elimination trials of the fourth annual tournament of Northwestern Pennsylvania high schools in which five teams are competing. In the opening match Oil City took the measure of Ridgway by a decisive score of 31-14.

Drawing of the victors matched Clearfield with Erie Central High for this afternoon, the winner of that event to play Oil City tonight for the sectional title.

The opening match failed to strike a balance of teams, the Ridgway five proving no match for the more adroit Oil City passers. By quarters the Oil Town boys led, 12-1, 15-3, 22-7. The Clearfield win was more or less of a family affair if the scoring can be offered as proof, the Browns, R. and W., and Johnsons, S. and H., scoring all the points. The Clearfield team stole a march on the Mercer county passers and led them at the first quarter, 13-4; Sharon rallied and at the half had cut the lead to a 15-18 margin, favoring Clearfield. The third and fourth quarters found Sharon battling gamely on the defensive. Clearfield not only handled the ball well but was very accurate in its shooting. Both games were remarkable for the scarcity of fouls.

By Referee Cal Bolster, 17 totaling the free tries of the first game and 18 the last. The victors of last night's games are both well-balanced teams that will give any high school quint a battle. Two real battles are expected today, as Erie is touted a favorite.

The line-up:

COURSE ON SUGAR PRICE GOUGE WILL BE DECIDED SOON

Washington, D. C., Mar. 24.—The Department of Justice early next week is expected to make a decision as to whether the Federal government can prosecute the sugar combine who are charged with gouging the American people out of fifteen millions of dollars in the recent sugar rise.

A comprehensive investigation of manipulations of the sugar market during the last six weeks, which has resulted in the rise of seventy-five percent on the price of sugar, has been started by A. C. Seymour, Acting Attorney General. He will be assisted by the Department of Commerce.

Sailor John Kline Of Clearfield Is Drowned In Guantanamo Bay, Cuba

John Myhoffer Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Kline, of West Sixth avenue, who enlisted in the U. S. Navy some time ago, fell overboard from the U. S. S. Porpoise while that vessel was with the fleet at war maneuvers in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, on January 8th, 1923. Every endeavor was made to recover the body but without avail, so the family here have been notified.

The deceased was born in Clearfield September 29, 1902, being therefore aged 20 years, 3 months and 12 days.

The news of the young man's untimely death was a sad and most severe shock to his family and many friends here.

He is survived by his parents, one brother and one sister.

Penalty for Wife Beating Dropped; Gets 30 Days For Making His Own

Joe Romanski, the "Osceola" man, who has the habit of cuffing his good wife whenever he thinks she needs it, which is quite often according to the abused wife, was before Judge Bell for sentence yesterday on his double-barreled plea of guilty to the charge of assault and battery against the wife and to the possession of a still and other tools and ingredients sometimes used to circumvent Andy Volstead and his minions.

A couple of weeks ago Romanski beat his wife just once too often. She had a warrant issued for his arrest. When the Constable went to his home to arrest the wife beater he found Joe hiding in the midst of his illicit distilling outfit and haled him before the Justice of the Peace for violation of the liquor law as well as assault and battery.

COMMERCIAL AND ROTARY CLUBS WILL FORM COMPANY TO ACQUIRE PLOTS OF GROUND AND FINANCE CONSTRUCTION

Propose Cutting Up Weaver Circus Lots Into Building Lots and Going Into Real Estate Business On a No Profit Basis to Help Builders

COMMITTEE TO SELL STOCK IS NAMED

State Forestry Commissioner Robert Y. Stuart of Harrisburg, met and addressed an audience of one hundred and twenty-seven of the business and professional men of Clearfield when he attended and addressed a joint meeting of the Commercial and Rotary Clubs and their guests at the Hotel Dimeling last evening.

President Dr. Paul Frantz of the Commercial Club presided over the meeting very capably and before introducing the guest of the evening took up the regular business of the club and the meeting. Dr. Frantz made the first public announcement of the proposed organization of the Clearfield Home Building Company, which is a project advanced by the Commercial and Rotary Clubs and representatives of the different banking institutions of the town, which has for its object the securing of a plot of ground and the building of a half a hundred or more homes for Clearfield residents. He said this committee had secured an option on the Weaver lots lying between Third and Fourth streets and fronting on Leavy avenue—the circus grounds—and proposed laying the same out in lots and building houses for the accommodation of Clearfield's rapidly growing population. He then introduced President H. B. Powell of the County National Bank who detailed the plan under which the proposed corporation is to be organized. Mr. Powell said the Weaver lots had been plotted and run off into 46 building lots by the Clearfield Home Building Company, a chartered corporation with capital stock totaling $25,000. It was proposed to have the "business" men of Clearfield provide this capital stock and to this end a committee or team headed by P. T. Davis, of the Clearfield Trust Company, would start out Monday next to sell the required stock. The shares are worth $100 each and the stockholders will be satisfied with their money back and legal interest only during the time it is being used or held by the corporation. When organized the lots will be sold to home builders and when a lot purchaser has his lot paid for and desires to build the corporation will assist him with the money to build the house, protected by a mortgage on the premises. Mr. Powell said this was a move long needed in Clearfield and he solicited and promised most satisfactory response to the appeal for stockholders on the part of our business people.

Hear of Train Restoration.

The matter of the re-establishment of Sunday passenger service on the B. & P. road between Clearfield and DuBois was the next subject taken up by President Frantz and he directed Walter Flegel, chairman of the civic affairs committee of the Commercial Club, to read a letter received by Editor John F. Short, of the Clearfield Republican, from Passenger Agent Huntington of the B. & P. Railway Company at Rochester, which contained the welcome announcement that Sunday passenger service would be restored to both the G. & M. and Indiana branches of that road upon April 29, 1923, at the time the summer schedule went into effect. The announcement was received with hearty applause.

Penfield Road Discussed.

The much-needed Penfield road improvement was the next matter of community interest taken up by President Frantz, who announced that Commissioner Stuart gave a highly interesting and instructive talk on the state forests and the urgent necessity for the hearty co-operation of every citizen in the work of conserving and reforesting these Pennsylvania hills. He showed the discrepancy we place on wood and said that while the annual per capita consumption of wood in Pennsylvania was 200 board feet we were actually producing now but 58 board feet per capita. He touched briefly on the trials and tribulations of the department, complimented Clearfield people for their assistance in helping to patrol forest fires in the past and collected a continuation of that co-operation in the future. He closed by expressing himself as seeing the urgent necessity for the improvement of the Penfield road through the state forests and was heartily in favor of the project.

A home-made parody on the "Long Long Trail," which depicted the difficulties incident to an attempt to negotiate the present Penfield road, was sung by Secretary Pierce of the Y. M. C. A. The audience, joining in the chorus, preceded Commissioner Stuart's talk and he closed his remarks by stating his entire accord with the sentiment expressed by the song as he had "made the grade" one time with Billy Dague when he went but to lock the tree nursery over.

R. S. Ross, of the Forestry Department, who accompanied Mr. Stuart, then treated the assemblage to a moving picture forestry story, which was taken from an address of Governor Gifford Pinchot, while Forestry Commissioner, which presented Pennsylvania's forest situation and needs in a highly impressive manner, and which was very greatly enjoyed.

President Frantz then called for a rising vote of thanks from the assemblage and when this was given the highly successful meeting was declared adjourned.

Miss Host McGarry served a most excellent sea food dinner and really universal commendation for same.

Dear Sir
The letter of "Old Timer" published in the Progress under date of March 17th, has created quite a stir among the natives. Several answers are said to be in course of preparation. Allow them to go as far as they like. We should hear the "other" side.

OLD TIMER A GOOD SUBJECT FOR ANY LUNATIC ASYLUM

Karthaus, Pa., March 21, '23
I note an article in the Clearfield Progress dated March 19th, 1923, headed "Through Karthaus on a Rubber Neck Wagon" by "Ald Timer."

I hereby wish to correct a few statements made by the fool signing himself "Old Timer."

In the first place, if he had any lianhood about himself and knew the facts he writes about to be true, he would not have to be ashamed to sign his article with his name.

Karthaus, being a thriving mining town, everybody working and earning a good living, taking care of their families and having a few dollars left after paying all bills with which he may play poker, craps or buy worthless stocks, a pleasure which every blooded American, except "Old Timer" is entitled to.

He charges our local officers with evasion of duty. I defy anyone to enter Karthaus and disobey the law, and if "Old Timer" will make the proper information, he may rest assured that a warrant will be issued and executed regardless of the fact that he will not serve as constable.

He charges crap games going on in Church property. I defy anyone to prove where any crap game has ever taken place on any church, school or in fact any public property of the township. The young men who play games are better church members than "Old Timer" ever dared be, and the "Deacon" he mentions in his article would be glad to give him a little talk on spiritualism to ram in his head, for he seems to have plenty of room for knowledge. "Old Timer" surely has some respect for a lady. In his article he does quite a little sweating, showing that he must come from some worthless stock where he was taught swear words instead of the alphabet.

Our local bank is governed by two of our representative citizens who care not how their depositors money is spent and in fact some new accounts have been opened by those playing the game.

If "Old Timer" is anxious to meet that "Sawed-off" fellow who blew all his money as a professional gambler, does not work, only owns the clothes he wears, the writer who happens to be that individual would be glad to meet him and supply him with some information that he must have missed, as it may come in handy for future use, or perhaps if his local bank needed an endorser on his notes, or maybe his children or wife might need a pair of shoes or wearing apparel, the "sawed-off fellow" is always anxious to help out some one to keep them from becoming an expense to the county.

I feel sorry for the lady to whom "Old Timer" mentioned these facts as it is a crime to poison a woman's mind, especially by one so foolish and not informed as "Old Timer."

If "Local Traveler" has any more articles to print about Karthaus, he will be doing the citizens a good turn by not exaggerating his facts, and will be welcomed as a brother. On his last visit, at which time he wrote an article on the doings of the town, he was recognized by several of our leading young men, who noticed that after a good meal at the Potter House, a hair cut and shave and some soap and water down below the white collar line, he made a fair representative for a newspaper and looked half respectable as he boarded the train for Gray.

Thanking you in advance for the insertion of this article, I am
ALBERT B. HARTMANN
Karthaus, Pa.
(The Sawed-Off Fellow)

(Editor's Note.—The articles referred to in the above contribution appear to have "stirred up the animals" and things down Karthaus way and our contributor above makes the same error he charges against "Local Traveler" and "Old Timer" by assuming to name the writer of the articles in question. In justice to the representative of this paper and in all fairness we want to inform Mr. Hartmann that he is entirely mistaken in his surmise as neither the gentleman from Gray nor no other person even remotely connected with The Progress wrote either of the communications complained of. The name of a correspondent to a newspaper is withheld by the editor when so requested, but we have no hesitation in furnishing a "clean bill of health" to any person charged with contributing to this paper when they have not done so. No, Mr. Hartmann, you are mistaken in your presumption.—Editor The Progress.

FRIENDS REGRET DEATH OF TWO SISTERS

Friends have received the sad news of the death of Miss Margaretta America Frank, well known to many of our people, she having again renewed old acquaintance, during a visit a few years ago at the home of Mrs. F. G. Chorpensing.

One the 6th of December Miss Frank tripped on a rug in her room and fell injuring her hip very severely, which caused her much suffering, ending in her death from cerebral hemorrhage on Friday, 29th of March, at Binghamton, N. Y. She was notable for her dignity, affability and intelligence and was always the centre of admiring friends.

To add to the sorrow of her family, ily, about 24 hours before she was called away, word came to them of the sudden taking away, at her home in Vancouver, Washington, of Rebecca, eldest of the family, wife of Rev Henry Swartz. This marriage took place in Clearfield and Mrs. Swartz proved to be the ideal wife and mother to a large and interesting family.

Mrs. E. W. Howe alone remains of the well known Frank family, of the earlier days of Clearfield. Their father, Squire M. A. Frank, also was Clearfield's first postmaster under Republican rule, during Lincoln's administration in the Sixties. After some years Mr. Frank had a very advantageous offer from Falls City, Nebraska, so that in '69 the family removed to that place, but at various times the different members of the family visited Clearfield thus showing their attachment to the place and people. Mr. Frank also held membership in the I. O. O. F. lodge in this place until his death a few years ago.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The proposed changes in the game law, now before the Legislature at Harrisburg, are bringing forth a great deal of discussion. The Game Commission which has given the law its expert and much attention and investigation, backed by their experience over a long term of years, offer a draft of the changes, they feel and necessary at this time to carry on the game work that has already been done along the line of game preservation and preservation. When this draft was presented and published, some of the provisions did not appeal to some hunters and sportsmen and they lost no time in saying so, while others equally interested, looked on it as a word, strong in the belief that that which would do the greatest good to every interest concerned would finally come out of it all.

Some time ago Hon. Frank G. Harris, a Clearfield county hunter for six years, wrote a letter to the Game Commission, in which he went on record very strongly against the proposed advance in the price of a hunter's license in Pennsylvania from $1.00 to $1.50. In the course of his letter Mr. Harris mentioned the amount of revenue received by the State Game Commission from the hunter's license fund of Clearfield county and stated he would like to see a report of the amount of same returned to the county during the year.

Our friend John M. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, president of the State Game Commission, who saw Mr. Harris' letter, supplies this information in the following reply which we are pleased to be able to publish:—

Pittsburg, Pa., March 20, 1923.
J. D. Connelly, Esq.,
The Clearfield Progress,
Clearfield, Penna.
Friend Connelly:—

I note in your issue of March 21st that you publish a letter from Mr. Frank G. Harris. Evidently, Mr. Harris has not kept in touch with the work of the Game Commission, and as "the acknowledged champion of the Clearfield county hunters" takes exception to the proposed increase in the Resident Hunters License Fee.

This was proposed by the Citizens Committee on the Finance of the State of Pennsylvania and approved by the Governor. I have talked with single sportsmen and with sportsmen's organizations all over the state, and when they know that the increase will be used for purchasing game preserves with hunting grounds surrounding them, and maintaining same, they are heartily in favor of it.

As you are perhaps aware, Allegheny county issues about 25,000 licenses yearly. We have no game preserve, such as you are blessed with and we do not receive over $1,000.00 worth of game yearly, and receive practically no bounties. We have one game protector at a salary of $1,500.00 per year. The balance of our money is spent in mountainous counties where it is suitable for game and game sanctuaries. I have known many hunters to purchase their licenses in Clearfield county but have never known a Clearfield county hunter to purchase his license in Allegheny.

Below, I hand you a statement showing the revenue from and disbursements for your county for the year 1922:

Net revenue from 1922 Resident Hunters' License	$11,066.40
DISBURSEMENTS
Salary and expenses of Game Protector	$2,490.58
Salary and expenses: special help employed	720.56
16 Salary and expenses supervisory officer	664.24
Salary and expenses refuge keeper	1,096.34
NOTE: In past years considerably more than sum shown was spent on Refuge No. 2
Bounties paid in Clearfield county	3,049.06
Game purchased and distributed in that county approximately	613.50
167 Amount expended for feeding & caring for game	59.13
167 Administrative charges for general office force and bounty division	538.31
Total disbursements	$9,226.69

Very truly yours,

Mustard Plaster Gives Up To Electric Light In Treating Pneumonia

New York, March 24.—The prosaic mustard plaster has paved the way for a new treatment of pneumonia, which promises to control that disease.

Electric lights are applied to the patient's chest and back in this new treatment, and the temperature of the lungs is raised.

This, according to Doctor Natanson of Jersey City who has experimented with the device, is an improvement on the old mustard plaster. "Mustard plasters have saved the lives of many pneumonia patients," he said. "That kind of heat, however, does penetrate inside the lungs sufficient."

The new method developed by Doctor Stewart of Yale and introduced at St. Mary's hospital at Hoboken by Dr. Brooser carries heat deep into the lungs without pain and without burning the skin. An electric current passes through the body and some experiments have shown an increase of temperature in the lungs to one hundred fifteen degrees Fahrenheit.

Seven Points of Supremacy

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTERS" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the insoles are cut from standard outsole leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTERS" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamp and sole leather box toes. This feature prevents ripping at the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The insoles are shoulder channelled so that they fit tightly against the outside. There is no need or room for a cork filler. A small piece of duck is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Calfein inside corner pocket is of great value for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTER" heels are 1/2 inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with 3-oz. duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, thus keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Edmonds' "FOOT-FITTER" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's bandage. "FOOT-FITTERS" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Spas at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard against kidney trouble because we live on too much rich food. Our blood loaded with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out. They weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative system clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like slugs of lead, your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, and if you are obliged to urinate two or three times during the night, if you suffer with sick headache, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the purest of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush out the clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

GIVING GOD A SQUARE DEAL

Several years ago we heard a female children, the trading stock of the square deal. So far have men advanced in the attitude of the square deal that today, in all the Christian countries at least, woman is the equal of men in the eyes of the law, and, indeed, is even given that greater protection under the law to which she is entitled by reason of her being physically unable to defend herself as is the masculine. Children are given the square deal of equal opportunity through the medium of laws regulating and restricting child labor and that great American institution, the free public school. We have made such progress in looking after the well being of mankind, and we have set up such safeguards as seem to guarantee the opportunity of every child coming into the world, that we have become dependent almost wholly on our man made economic scheme and little attention is given to the source from which we sprang. To be sure, no one blames God when our social and economic system breaks down, and for the same reason, no one attributes any of our manifold blessings to God.

God has come to be looked upon as the great unseen and unknown being who by some magical means, not interesting to us, simply started this world to revolving after the six days labor was done in creating it, until today, this lack of communion between God and man is causing grave doubts to arise in the minds of men polluted by half baked scientific and writers who, following a false philosophy and teaching, and through vanity set out to prove that man descended from monkeys. I prefer to look at it reversely and believe that man, in many instances, has abused himself to the level of the animal kingdom by a continued denial of God and His laws.

I enter on the subject of this article "Giving God A Square Deal," by affirming my belief that there is a God, an all powerful, always present, all knowing God; a personal God, if you please, who, although reigning in Heaven is here and everywhere with whom we can commune, to whom we owe everlasting gratitude for our very being, and for the earth whereupon he has placed us, not that we might seek pleasures and give no pleasure, not that we might live and die and become extinct, but that we might perform our part as individuals in the great Divine plan which is unfolded in the scriptures, and finally, on that least great day, take our place in that haven, not made with hands, from whose borne no traveler ever returned and where the children of God will live eternally. This is almost a universal creed and none but the infidel will deny its substance. Yet, in spite of this deep, underlying belief of man in general, each and every one of us, by our daily life and action deny, insult and provoke God. And, let me say it is my understanding that belief alone in this creed will not suffice to appease God. The Mohammedan four or five times a day chants "Alla hu" and similar phrases, repeating it over and over. It is his method of acknowledging God. I am a Presbyterian, strong in the faith, but I believe strongly in the Methodist doctrine of faith translated into deeds, and have a profound respect for that obedience to law and respect for God and what belongs to God that is so firmly imbedded in the heart and mind of the communicant of the Roman Catholic church. God created the universe and all that is within, thereon and thereupon. Possibly the human mind is not capable of comprehending what a wonderful and what a terrible power He is. The very magnitude of His power, when we reflect upon it, is incomprehensible and possibly that accounts, in part, for the indifferent manner in which His name is taken in vain and his works estimated. We are given these days to taking things for granted. So many great and wonderful things are happening, our senses are dulled. We hold our hands and feet for wonderment in the radio which makes of the air a slave, the X-ray which sends a ray of light through a hitherto impenetrable substance and photographs what lays within, or the light which flows in rays from the incandescent bulb. All were here when he came and he takes them as a matter of course. It is not for him to marvel at where they came from; they are his to use. In much the same manner we use the great things that God has given us without a thought of the source of our blessings.

When we are going in our mad race for to tune and place through the atmosphere here of "things" something is being done. God's plan seems to have been interrupted, or to speak by the imagination of a condition which requires every man, if a wage or salary earner, to cut the corner. Our industrial life with the development of commerce has brought about a condition wherein it is difficult to distinguish between week days and the Holy Sabbath, on which we are commanded to do no labor, except by the tolling of the church bells and the appearance of the pale choir singer instead of the true praise singer. I cannot help but think that the people of fifty years ago, living a more simple and less accelerated life, were closer to God and had the greater opportunities to be near God. The man who is as close today must necessarily keep in that position by running in a circle.

It is idle to think for even a moment that the Creator put man here as a mere toy or as a pawn to be moved about by Him as an inanimate part of a great machine or in an aimless fashion. Rather would I believe that a man was giving life and reason in order that he might be a free agent, having all the faculties with which to discern his particular tasks and duties in the Divine plan and the physical strength and mental capacity to perform those tasks. That God has a definite plan and purpose is made clear to me by His creation of the human race endowed with mental power and made more clear by the sending of Christ, His Son, to give us the law and the commandments.

First of all we owe God the homage that is due Him as our creator; for our very being, and the manifold privileges, blessings and associations that we enjoy and none but the basest of men would refuse to acknowledge that debt. Those of us who are in a position to realize however that acknowledgment of a debt and payment of that debt are entirely different. We cannot give God a square deal and withhold the service that is required of us as payment on our debt to Him, although deserved by God, appreciated by God, and imperative on our part, is only the first or preparatory act constituting a square deal.

I endeavored in my opening remarks to point out that the square deal was made possible and guaranteed man, woman and child by the safeguarding of all the rights and privileges of mankind and our efforts in this direction have resulted in curbing those tendencies which would interfere with the normal development of the human life. We can give God a square deal only by the same methods. His law must be hallowed, His works sacred, His laws obeyed. We must accept or else refuse to be placed in the way of His plan.

Knowing the law and the commandments as we do, and having the benefit of the wisdom of centuries, we must recognize them as such and translate our better impulses into deeds. The good intention that we have, those impulses that sweep over us when we see a good deed that can be done, must surely come from God; at least they are the outgrowth of the seed of charity that He has planted within us and we fail to carry out our mission of fellowship and brotherly love when we selfishly push these impulses aside and go about our selfish business. Just as true charity begins at home, so does the progress of the Divine plan when we are uncharitable to our fellow man. I have seen well-meaning but thoughtless churchmen, yes, even gentlemen of the cloth, give such treatment to their fellow creatures on certain occasions, as to cause a doubt to arise as to the righteousness and holiness of the former. The anger growing out of such happenings sometimes profanity, is provoked and one can hardly blame the individual who resents as much as the one who is the cause of the trouble. We often give men cause for anger out of which comes profanity and blasphemy. When we are not playing fair with God who interdicted that we should be brother to all men.

Truly God's ways are mysterious and beyond understanding and while we carry on our everlasting search for understanding let us be very careful, even fearful, lest we put an obstacle in the way of the man who would go right of his own volition if we be giving God a "square deal."

SUNDAY TRAINS TO
BE RESTORED ON
B. R. & P. RAILWAY

The B. R. & P. railway, company has arranged to restore passenger service on the C. & M. and Indiana Division beginning April 29th 1928. This announcement will indeed be welcome news to Clearfield business men and the traveling public generally and will once more allow the B. R. & P. to assert without fear of contradiction that they look carefully after the needs of their patrons but in the matter of freight and passenger service.

The Sunday trains were taken off following the ending of the World War when it was necessary to curtail passenger service whenever possible in order to give right of way to coal and freight to assist in the industrial revival of the country. The Sunday schedule will be the same as that of week days now—two trains per day each way.

Yandella begins between Michael Sayers, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead the officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. While Sir Norman is living at his country house the police ask him to help capture a criminal whom they believe to be at the head of a dangerous gang. On his way to London, Greyes' car is stopped and he is shot through the shoulder. Greyes asks Janet to dine with him. Janet accepts. Acting upon Michael's command Janet puts poison in Sir Norman's coffee, but regrets her act and purposely spoils the cup. Sayers tells this episode:

I WAS at St. Pancras Station to meet Gerty and Metzger on their arrival in England. I saw the brown black tin boxes with brass handles, handed out of the guard's van (all placed) on the roof of a tax cab. I saw, though it were fated some that the contents of those boxes would be mine before the week was out. I felt certain, too, that one at least of the two men would fight to death before I obtained possession of them. They were well worth it, however.

It was a foggy night, and I lit a sword with perfect safety on the side of the little throng of people who had come to greet these two men. They were a rough lot, on the whole—men of the lowest type, swarthy and unclean. I saw hungry glances directed toward those black boxes, and I knew that, given sufficient cunning and address, I should not be the first by a long way to strike a blow for their acquisition. Of these others I had no fear. Gerty and Metzger knew their friends, knew them well enough not to trust them.

I walked back through the fog to my humble little flat in Adam Street. These were gloomy days, even for me, who cared little about the physical comforts of life. I was passing on Mr. Arthur Youngblood, L.L.B., a cousin of the well-known editor of Lincoln's Inn, in town to consult upon a matter of reference at the British Museum. Day by day I walked to that gloomy museum of dead knowledge, spent an hour or so there, and back to my room. No one dared my footsteps. By devious ways I had shaken off all pursuit and suspicion. Yet life was a wearisome thing. I am not a man with many human pleasures. I should have welcomed a visit from Janet—a little dinner, perhaps, at the Cafe Royal, a peep into the world of many-colored pleasure outside of which my path lay. These things, however, I knew were not for me. Janet was watched, as I knew not, she had failed me in my last demand, Janet presented a problem to be solved.

On the third day after the arrival of Gerty and Metzger, I visited my relatives, the firm of Youngblood, Nicholson and Youngblood, at Lincoln's Inn. My reputed cousin granted me an interview within a few minutes of my arrival. We spoke for a time of my studies and their progress. Then there was a pause. The door was closed, the walls of the room were thick.

"Things progress," I demanded, leaning across his wide, untidy table. Mr. Youngblood emitted benevolently. In these moments of direct speech I was accustomed to forget my assumed personality and to speak with all the quick incisiveness that was natural to me. My legal adroitness, however, never altered the manner of reply or deportment. He was always the same, unctuous, legal, courtly.

"Your affairs are in excellent train," he assured me. "Of the two people in whom we are interested,

MANUFACTURERS OF PALM BEACH CLOTH REGULATE PRICES

Washington, March 24.—The federal Trade Commission today issued a complaint against the Goodall Woyle Company of Sanford, Maine, manufacturers of palm beach cloth, alleging adherence to standard fixed prices in violation of the law.

The Goodall Company, the complaint charges, by use of a so-called "tie up agreement" set the minimum price at which manufacturers must sell palm beach cloth to wholesalers and retailers. Manufacturers who do not agree to abide by these regulations are refused this product the complaint charges.

WIFE OF SECRETARY OF WAR WEEKS VERY ILL AT WASHINGTON

Washington, March 24.—The condition of Mrs. John Weeks, wife of Secretary of War Weeks, who became seriously ill on a yacht off the coast of Georgia, is now considerably improved but she is still weak.

Mrs. Weeks reached Washington in the night and had to be removed to her home in an ambulance. Secretary Weeks said that her condition was not serious.

SPORTING MAN'S VIRTUES

of a bedroom, bathroom and sitting-room only, and is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Miguel, very rich South Americans. They are leaving tonight by motorcar for Southampton to catch the steamer there for Buenos Aires in the morning.

"Their luggage is already packed?" I asked.

"Already packed," Mr. Youngblood answered. "The porters have commented upon its weight."

"And Madam?"

"Appears to have fulfilled her task," was the somewhat hesitating answer.

I detected signs of uneasiness in my companion's speech, and I questioned him about it promptly.

"Have you doubts of the woman," I asked.

"None whatever," Mr. Youngblood assured me blandly. "At the same time, she is, without doubt, the weakest link in the chain. She has a temperamental enough—Mr. Metzger seems to have been an easy victim; but I should have had more confidence in the lady who visited me the other day."

"I can no longer put complete faith in my wife," I replied coldly.

Mr. Youngblood was startled out of his dignified serenity of manner. He leaned across the table, and asked me, "Do you mean by that, he demanded harshly, 'Do you know that she has been here, the one place in London you should have been careful to keep her away from, if you had any doubts?'"

"I have no doubts whatever as to her fidelity," I declared. "You know what I mean when I say that, in the parlance of our friends, she has gone soft. It is a pity."

Mr. Youngblood seemed relieved, but puzzled. "A woman who could do what she did on the golf links at Woking," he murmured reminiscently, "must have changed very much if she merits your present criticism."

The subject was by no means a pleasant one to me. I abandoned it. "In any case," I reminded him, "she is in touch with Greyes, and he knows too much."

"Wonderful capacity for existence, that man," Mr. Youngblood remarked suavely.

HARSH deeds—I am not a lover of them. I seldom go out of my way to kill, or allow my subordinates to do so, if my ends can be obtained otherwise. At that moment, however, I felt a sudden resurgence into my brain of that one bloodthirsty desire of my life.

"As soon as this affair is safely concluded," I said, "and we are in funds once more, I shall take occasion to deal with Norman Greyes myself."

"It occurs to me that you would be well advised," my companion acquiesced. "The person in question possesses the one gift which might make him dangerous to us. He has imagination."

I nodded. I was tracing figures upon the blotting-paper, debating with myself different methods of dealing with Norman Greyes.

"Every channel which might lead to the firm of Youngblood, Nicholson and Youngblood," the lawyer continued meditatively, "seems, so far as human ingenuity could arrange it, permanently blocked, but a man with imagination who is not afraid to work on guesswork is always to be feared."

"It will not be my fault," I promised, as I took my leave, "if you have any cause to fear Norman Greyes after the next month or so."

That night, in the language of those forgotten war communiques, everything happened according to plan. At a quarter to nine Metzger, who was writing alone in a sitting-room, heard a soft knocking at the door which communicated with the adjoining suite. He rose promptly, unlocked the outside door of his own room, and softly withdrew the bolt of the door of the next suite. He stood there with an inviting smile upon his ugly face. Madam de Miguel laid a cautioning finger upon her somewhat creased lips as she stole over the threshold.

"There is one hour that my husband will be away," she whispered, gliding past him. "You may kiss me."

Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sleep, I could not eat, I could not do my work except a little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day some one threw your little book on to my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I went right out and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took two more. Now I am in perfect health. I do all of my own work and could do more. I can truly say that I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me my health."—Mrs. O. J. HINCKLEY, 316 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

LESSON FOR MARCH 25 REVIEW

JESUS THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

GOLDEN TEXT—This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.—1 Timothy 1:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Favorite Story of the Quarter
JUNIOR TOPIC—Favorite Lessons of the Quarter
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Luke's Picture of Jesus
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lessons From Luke's Gospel

The method of review must be determined by the grade of the class, by the text of the teachers and by the nature of the studies of the quarter. Three methods are suggested:

(1) Centering in the Topic—Jesus the World's Savior. This method is suggested by Doctor Crandell.

1. The World's Liberator.
2. From Diseases. Lessons 1, 5.
3. From "Legalism." Lesson 1.
4. From Selfishness. Lessons 2, 5.
5. From Prejudice. Lesson 7.
6. From the Sinful Past. Lesson 7.
7. The World's Teacher.
8. About Sin and Salvation. Lesson 5.
9. About Human Duty:
(a) To Others. Lessons 2, 4.
(b) To God. Lessons 5, 8, 9.
(c) To State. Lesson 2.
(d) With Money. Lessons 4, 8, 9.
10. About Prayer. Lesson 6.
11. The World's Sacrifice.
1. Sacrifice Faced, Accepted. Lesson 10.
2. Sacrifice Rendered. Lesson 11.
(2) Modern Applications of the Lessons. This scheme calls for reports by members of the class to whom assignments were previously made. This is taken from Peloubet's Notes.

Lesson I. "What should we keep of the old-time Sabbath?"

Lesson II. "Why is it hard to be humble today?"

Lesson III. "Are our churches really open to the prodigals?"

Lesson IV. "What should our rich men do for our Lazaruses?"

Lesson V. "Men and women who deserve much gratitude and receive little."

Lesson VI. "What may we reasonably expect from prayer?"

Lesson VII. "Why is it hard for a modern business man to be a Christian?"

Lesson VIII. "How the church should utilize its average members."

Lesson IX. "How can we get our church members to give as much as they should?"

Lesson X. "Things that Christians do not prize enough."

Lesson XI. "How the message of the cross might be brought to all men in a generation."

(3) The Central Teaching of the Lessons:

Lesson I. There is no malady of man connected with soul or body which Jesus cannot heal.

Lesson II. Unselfishness will move one to humbly take the lowest place in life, esteeming others better than himself.

Lesson III. God is longing and waiting to welcome to His bosom the vilest sinner who comes with contrition of heart.

Lesson IV. The one who lives only for this life shall surely suffer agony and torment in the life to come.

Lesson V. Ingratitude is common to the natural heart. The Lord expects those who experience His salvation to give Him their love.

Lesson VI. Those who pray to God in the right spirit shall surely get the blessings sought.

Lesson VII. The supreme purpose of the coming of Jesus Christ to the earth, taking upon Himself our humanity, and dying on the cross was to save lost men.

Lesson VIII. Upon those who have not been faithful in the use of gifts the Lord shall execute judgment at His coming.

Lesson IX. We are responsible to God, but God measures our gifts by the extent of our ability.

Lesson X. Bitter agony was suffered by Christ when He bore our sins.

Lesson XI. In Christ's death a full price was paid for our sins.

What God Remembers.

"I," says God, "all remember." How sweet to think of what God will, and what He will not, remember! He will remember his own covenant, but He will not remember His people's sins. The cross, which rattles the former, puts away the latter.—C. H. McIntosh.

God's Offer.

Back of our ignorance and uncertainty God stands with His offer of wisdom and guidance to all who will ask it.

No Truer Picture.

There is no truer picture of what history reveals than a crucifix.—Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy.

The Lix.

Sin has many tools, but a life is the handle that fits them all.—O. W. Holmes.

The Yellow Dogs answered to the call of the leader of the pack and gathered in one of the rooms of the High School building Thursday evening. A number of new dogs have been given a chance to gnaw at the bone of sociability. The Yellow Dogs has become quite an item in the list of social organizations in Curwensville, and fellows are being taught to hunt who never howled before. Quite a few dogs were added to the membership roll Thursday night. There is only one thing that these Yellow Dogs would not do, and that is a visit of Colonel Blimp to our town. Otherwise let them bark away.

"We are told that the people of Curwensville and those who live beyond, are putting forth strenuous efforts to improve a state highway from being built from Curwensville to Lumber City in the river route. This should not be, as that stretch of highway is made more badly than the one from Curwensville across to Bull's Landing, a route the Curwensville folks are working so hard to land. The Lumber City folks need no fuss or objection to a highway from Curwensville to Curwensville, a why should the hill folks oppose a road that would greatly benefit their neighbors, without wheeling across a dirt road to connect with a state road leading to Curwensville. Lumber City and Curwensville people as well as all citizens residing along the proposed route, want the river and built and three or four petitions signed by hundreds of persons, asking the State Highway Commission to take their request under serious consideration before coming to a hasty decision to build the Bull's Landing branch. Visitors and assistants from half dozen other towns were present and rendered aid in putting this new fraternal society on a solid footing. The work required many hours and some of the new initiates did not get home until 2 a. m.

Rev. J. C. Collins and wife returned home yesterday after a week's sojourn in Harrisburg and other towns where they have many friends and acquaintances.

DuBois Not So Wet Since State Police Began To Rout Out Moonshiners

DuBois, March 24.—The state police, who have been showing great activity in this city during the past several weeks in regard to the cleaning out of moonshiners, again showed the result of their investigations yesterday, visiting the home of Joseph Vitrella, of Dixon avenue. The raid was conducted shortly after the noon hour, and was under the direction of Privates Russell Barker and Harold Pierce, assisted by Federal Agent Nicholas Crease.

When the officers entered the store and dwelling occupied by Vitrella they immediately made a thorough search and uncovered a large supply of mash and liquor. There was a total of 1150 gallons of mash in the process of fermentation, while 600 gallons of French product wine was found concealed on the premises. Vitrella was placed under arrest and taken before Alderman Jos. Bogden where he was held under $1,500 bail for court.

Details of the state police have been working in this section for some little time and have done a fine work in the raiding of moonshine joints. Some unusually big hauls have been made, and it is declared the work will be continued until all of the 'shiners have been apprehended.

MONTGOMERY GOT HIS CAR

Gordon Montgomery, of Bellefonte whose high-priced automobile was seized recently at Bellefonte by Federal dry enforcement officers, came to Clearfield today to meet Agent N. M. Crease, who seized the car, and after giving Crease a satisfactory bond in the sum of $3,000 was given possession of his car which had been in storage at the Routh & Swartz garage on Locust street since being seized.

The case against Montgomery and his colored chauffeur who was taken with the car will be heard in United States Court at Williamsport next June at which time it will be finally determined whether Montgomery will lose his car or not.

DERAILED CAR ON R. R. & P. MESSED UP TRACK BADLY

A derailed car in the middle of a hundred car New York Central train tore the devil out of the rails generally from a point near the R. R. & P. passenger station at West Market street down to the siding into the Independent Oil Company gas service station last evening.

The long train came down the road about 8:30 o'clock being transported by two engines, one at the head of the train to lead the way, with a "pusher" bringing up the rear.

It is said that a local painter and paper hanger had gone to the home of a customer on Williams street for the purpose of figuring on a painting job. He parked his car too close to the railroad track and when the train came along the engine took the car a smash and bowled it over into the ditch. Slipping on his air, the engine man checked his train so suddenly that a wooden gondola between two cars buckled and hopped the track near the station.

After signaling the rear engine of the train, the head brakeman ran back along the line and cutting his train at the break the head engine started on the road with half the train.

A train of 100 cars is approximately one mile long and consequently the rear end of the train was around the corner at the foot of Coal Hill and not knowing the situation the engine man of the "pusher" thinking the trouble a half mile ahead had been adjusted and started for the yard. The derailed car was bumped along over the ties and across the West Market street sidewalk down as far as the oil company siding. The ties and sidewalk were torn to pieces and considerable damage done to the main track as well as the siding into the oil station.

We don't know how it works generally but we do know here was an object lesson in favor of the full rear proposition, because when the head brakeman left with his end of the train and the conductor was forced to protect the rear end there was nobody to look after the front end of the wrecked train until an outsider volunteered to act in the emergency and act as liaison officer between the wrecked car and its load of coal.

was dumped over the river bank by the wrecking crew which worked all night long to clear the track for traffic.

They have proved that Jewett Six will stand hard service under all conditions. Because it is the sturdiest car of its size or price—whether four or six. Because it weighs 2805 pounds—200 pounds more than "light sixes." Because it has a husky six-inch frame, with wide top flange, four rugged cross-braces, and high-duty Paige-Timken axles, front and rear.

Jewett owners have proved its wonderful reserve power, as well. Power that soft roads and stubborn hills never tax. Because Jewett has a Paige-built motor of fifty horsepower that literally fills the hood! The largest built for a medium-sized six. Running at moderate speed gives it long-lived dependability, free from usual wear.

These 25,000 owners have proved Jewett outperforms any car of its class. Because no car this size has 249 cubic inches piston displacement. Most power for weight within $200 of its price. In spite of its husky strength Jewett carries but 11 1/2 pounds of weight to each inch piston displacement, where comparable cars carry 14 to 16. The answer is easy!

They have proved, these owners, that Jewett doesn't overheat or get noisy. The hollow crankshaft high-pressure oiling system forces 2 gallons of oil per minute to all main and connecting-rod bearings. This best-oiled motor in a medium-sized car stays smooth and young.

These 25,000 owners, won in one short year from its announcement, have proved that Jewett Six has amazing pep and pickup. Accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds. Little wonder Jewett has shattered hill-climbing records the country over! Two miles an hour in traffic to 60 on the highway—in high gear. Flexibility that pleases all.

Finally, these 25,000 owners have proved Jewett unrivaled for easy riding and substantial comfort. Extra long springs, deep roomy cushions, wide seats, and substantial construction tell why. And Jewett has handling ease unequalled except in the Paige.

What these 25,000 owners have proved for themselves we shall be glad to prove to you. At your first convenience, see the big-six value Jewett gives at $995!
